

Two-month-old Yasmin, who was born premature, sleeps soundly during a visit to Infant Crisis Services with her parents who were provided with a supply of specialty formula for Yasmin.

For Brian Knight, making a monthly gift to the Opportunities for Children iFund program is simply a matter of paying it forward.

He knows firsthand that all it takes is a few people showing a child they matter to turn a negative situation into a positive one. Raised in a single-parent home, Brian credits his success today to the care and support he and his younger brother received from his mother and other relatives. “They showed me that giving is caring,” he explains. “They demonstrated that regardless of the situation they were going to help me become successful.”

Brian and Carly Knight with their children Eliana and Peyton.

The first in his family to graduate college, Brian is a married father of two and is a CPA for Chaparral Energy. Brian’s monthly recurring credit card gift to the Opportunities for Children iFund are pooled with gifts from other donors and used to award grants to worthy organizations like Infant Crisis Services to provide specialty formula for premature babies and Positive Tomorrows, an elementary school for homeless children that used a grant to expand its after-school program.

To learn more about Brian’s story and how you can also make a difference through a gift to the iFund program, visit www.occf.org/knight or use your smartphone to scan the QR code.